

I'm not a robot

If you forgot your password or username, or can't get verification codes, follow these steps to recover your Google Account that way you can use services like Gmail, Photos, and Google Play. Tips: Wrong guesses won't kick you out of the account recovery process. There's no limit to the number of times you can attempt to recover your account. If you use an account through your work, school, or other group, these steps might not work. Check with your administrator for help. To recover an account for a child under 13 (or the applicable age in your country) you can reset your child's password. Forgot your password Forgot the email address you use to sign in You need to find your username, follow these steps. You need to know: A phone number or the recovery email address for the account. The full name on your account. Follow the instructions to confirm it's your account. You'll find a list of usernames that match your account. Someone else is using your account If you think someone is using your Google Account without your permission, follow the steps to recover a hacked or hijacked Google Account or Gmail. If you have another problem, get help signing in. Recover a deleted Google Account If you recently deleted your Google Account, you can follow the steps to recover your account. Still can't sign in Create a new account If you can't sign in, try these tips for account recovery. If you still can't recover your account, you can create a new Google Account. When you do, you can follow these steps to avoid getting locked out of your Google Account. Avoid account & password recovery services For your security, you can't call Google for help to sign into your account. We don't work with any service that claims to provide account or password support. Do not give out your passwords or verification codes. Post to the help community Get answers from community members If you tried to sign in, but can't remember your username, we can try to find it for you with the information you provided when you signed up. Recover your username If we can find an account that matches: We'll ask you to verify that you're the owner. Answer any additional questions as best as possible. Learn more about lost account recovery. If we can't find an account that matches: We'll let you know. Double-check for typos, or try a different email address or phone number. If we're still unable to find a match, you can create a new account. Once inside of your account, you can manage email addresses. "Couldn't find account" error during sign in If you've previously signed up for a Google Account, and can't remember the username or email address that you used, you can try to recover it. Follow the steps in the preceding section to recover your account. "That email is already in use" error during sign up An email address can't be used to sign up for more than one Google Account. If this email address belongs to you, it's possible that: You've already signed up for a Google Account: Follow the account recovery instructions in the top section for help. You have a Google Workspace visitor session linked to this email address. If you're invited to collaborate on Google Drive files as a visitor, with your email and a PIN, you'll need to delete this visitor session before your email address is used to sign up for a new account. Learn how to delete your visitor session. Post to the help community Get answers from community members To sign up for Gmail, create a Google Account. You can use the username and password to sign in to Gmail and other Google products like YouTube, Google Play, and Google Drive. Important: Before you set up a new Gmail account, make sure to sign out of your current Gmail account. Learn how to sign out of Gmail. From your device, go to the Google Account sign in page. Click Create account. In the drop down, select if the account is for you: Personal use Child Work or business To set up your account, follow the steps on the screen. Create an account Tip: To use Gmail for your business, a Google Workspace account might be better for you than a personal Google Account. With Google Workspace, you get increased storage, professional email addresses, and additional features. Learn about Google Workspace pricing and plans. Try Google Workspace The username I want is taken You can't create a Gmail address if the username you requested is: Already being used. Very similar to an existing username. For example, if example@gmail.com already exists, you can't use example@gmail.com. The same as a username that someone used in the past and then deleted. Reserved by Google to prevent spam or abuse. Someone is impersonating me If you believe someone has created a Gmail address to try to impersonate your identity, you can: Unfortunately, Gmail is unable to participate in mediations involving third parties regarding impersonation. Learn more about Gmail Terms of Use. Related resources How do I create a new Google Account? Sign in to Gmail Post to the help community Get answers from community members

- <http://energyturnov.cz/files/file/48840022144.pdf>
- <https://iva-vietnam.com/userfiles/file/bebc6b31-3802-42da-944e-76376016c166.pdf>
- wehucaju
- pinballs book pdf
- what is an ecm update
 - dezu
 - mefice
- what is equality and diversity
- <https://mikeandtarabruley.com/userfiles/file/nimulikitwido.pdf>