Hi.I use the old method of importing a model and the terrain profile for Sketch up.However, at this time for a study at the university I wanted to try a way to import all 3D data from a given region (as we can see and, navigation on google earth).Right now I have this in the sketch up:Its possible?Thank you so much And I intended to have this: 1 Like The 3D data in Google Earth/Google Maps cannot be imported into any other application. Nowadays the data in SketchUp Pro comes from OpenStreetMap. SketchUp Extension Warehouse: PlaceMaker ($) 1 Like so does the new SketchUp not have the google earth import tool? or is there any of the current subscription versions that do? SketchUp hasnt gotten terrain or imagery from Google for years. It comes from Digital Globe or other sources. Terrain data and imagery are available in SketchUp Pro SketchUp does still import KMZ files from Google Earth, but for it to be of much use you would have selected a 3D site that was originally made in SketchUp.The amazing street view texture importing did go away once the deal between Google and Trimble ended, around 2015.
