Bring all the completed application form and supporting documents to your appointment. 7. Attend the appointment and submit your application in person. 8. Pay the passport renewal fee. The fee can usually be paid in cash or via credit card. 9. Once your application has been accepted and processed, you will be informed about the date and time for passport collection. 10. Collect your renewed passport on the designated date and time. You may need to provide your previous Malaysian passport for cancellation at this stage. It is important to follow all the instructions provided by the Malaysian High Commission in Australia and ensure that you have all the necessary documents and payment ready before submitting your application. Any errors or missing documents may result in delays or rejection of your passport renewal application. Once you have completed the application form and gathered all the necessary documents, the next step is to pay the renewal fee for your Malaysian passport. The fee can be paid online or through a certified bank or post office, depending on the requirements set by the Malaysian High Commission in Australia. Before making the payment, make sure to check the current fee amount and the accepted payment methods. It is important to pay the exact amount and provide the necessary payment reference or invoice number to ensure that your payment is properly processed. Keep in mind that the renewal fee is subject to change, so it is essential to stay updated on any fee updates or changes in the payment process. Failure to pay the correct fee or provide the necessary payment details may cause delays in processing your passport renewal application. Once the payment is successfully made, make sure to keep the payment receipt or proof of payment as you may be required to submit it as part of your application. It is also advisable to make a copy of the receipt for your own records. After paying the renewal fee, you are one step closer to renewing your Malaysian passport in Australia. Once your new Malaysian passport has been processed and issued, you can collect it in person or have it delivered to your specified address. If you choose to collect it in person, you will need to bring your old passport and the receipt or acknowledgment slip provided to you during the application process. If you are unable to collect the passport in person, you may authorize someone else to collect it on your behalf. The authorized person must bring their own identification document along with a letter of authorization signed by you. It is important to remember that your new passport can only be collected during the designated collection hours. These hours will be specified on the receipt or acknowledgment slip provided to you. If you fail to collect your passport within the specified time frame, it may be returned to the High Commission of Malaysia in Canberra. Upon collecting your new passport, it is recommended to double-check all the details on the passport for accuracy. If there are any mistakes or discrepancies, notify the passport issuing officer immediately. Remember to keep your new passport in a safe place, as it is an important travel document. It is also advisable to make a note of the passport number and keep it separate from your passport, in case of loss or theft. With your new Malaysian passport in hand, you can now travel with confidence and enjoy your time in Australia or at any other destination you choose.
