Who doesn't love road trips? Especially if they're done in a nice RV. The author is envious of people who can travel around the country on an RV and play Minecraft during their downtime. They've never taken such a trip themselves but it's on their bucket list. However, building a Camper RV in Minecraft could be a good alternative. They shared another tutorial by Keralis that shows how to build one easily. The video is fun to watch and the author thinks you should give it a try. The tutorial includes details about trailers, including this massive semi-trailer truck. The author is impressed by its design and colors. They also mention the importance of building detailed trucks and even suggest building your own trailer truck to travel the world with it.
