(AP Photo/LM Otero)(LM Otero / AP)ARLINGTON The Texas Rangers werent prepared to promote third baseman Josh Jung last week when the need for an infielder arose. They were Monday when he returned to the big league roster after a three-week stint in the minor leagues. Jungs promotion mightve had less to with his own performance and more to do with the teams immediate schedule. That may be entirely irrelevant to him after the last month-and-a-half of his professional career. June was probably the worst month Ive ever had, Jung said Monday night. But weve been through it now. The only thing we can do every single day is just try to grow.The Rangers recalled Jung, an All-Star starter at third base in 2023 who was reassigned to Triple-A Round Rock earlier this month to address issues with his swing and approach, as part of a flurry of roster moves before Mondays 7-2 win vs. the Athletics at Globe Life Field. He went 2 for 2 with a walk in his first big league game since July 1 and hit a home run in his first at bat vs. Athletics left-handed pitcher Jacob Lopez.I think its as much about where we are in the season too, Rangers president of baseball operations Chris Young said Monday. Josh is an important piece of our team. We wanted to get him reset down there and we feel like hes in a better spot mentally. Weve got important games here before the deadline and we think the best version of Josh can help us win.Jung drilled a low Lopez slider 385 feet over the left-center field wall to give the Rangers a 1-0 lead in the third inning. It was the third home run that hed hit in four games if you included the ones he hit with Round Rock on Friday and Saturday. It felt great because I wasnt trying to do that honestly, said Jung, whose .429 OPS in the June was the worst hed ever posted in a full month in his major league career. Just to get that result in the first at-bat, it was like, woah, you can settle down and just play ball. SportsDay Rangers (@dmn_rangers) July 22, 2025 Jung slashed .205/.225/.410 with two home runs in his eight-game minor league stint. He worked closely with Round Rock hitting coach Cody Atkinson in the batting cages with a directive of, in his words, how are we going to grow today? There were endless FaceTimes with his brother, Jace, a Detroit Tigers minor leaguer. Young saw a little bit of improvement in Jungs last handful of games at Round Rock and Bochy, too, acknowledged that hed swung the bat better. The Rangers upcoming schedule at a key point of their season, no less played a significant role too. Were facing a lot of lefties, Bochy said, and I think its fair to say were not having a lot of success off of them. We need to try and change things up a little bit here by bringing him up.Including Lopez, who started Monday, the Rangers are expected to face at least four left-handed starters in their next eight games against the As, the Atlanta Braves and the Los Angeles Angels before the July 31 trade deadline. The Rangers own a .610 OPS vs. left-handed pitchers that ranks second-to-last in baseball and were shut down by Detroit Tigers southpaw Tarik Skubal on Sunday night. Jung has a career .827 OPS against left-handers but struggled against them this season before the Rangers optioned him. He admitted, with a hearty laugh, that he hasnt even been thinking about the state of affairs at the major league level right now and that each day at Round Rock had been focused on his cage work with Atkinson. Ill do everything I can to help the team win, Jung said. Thats all, and hopefully be a piece of the lineup every day.The Rangers also recalled outfielder Michael Helman and right-handed pitcher Cole Winn. Infielder Justin Foscue and outfielder Alejandro Osuna were both optioned to the minor leagues while right-handed pitcher Chris Martin was placed on the 15-day injured list with a left calf strain. Helman, a 29-year-old rookie who had one previous stint with the Rangers this season, hit a three-run home run off of a Lopez slider in the fifth inning for his first career longball to give Texas a 5-1 lead. He and Jung traveled together from Las Vegas where the Express had been stationed Monday afternoon. They didnt arrive until 6:30 p.m. and neither had time to take batting practice. I think it showed that BP is overrated, Bochy said. They just put on a uniform. Thats the old school way, I guess, like playing American Legion ball.Said Jung: We got a little police escort at about 6:20. Delayed flights, baggage claim, 5 oclock traffic. It was a little hectic but we might have to do it again tomorrow. Hell be here, back in the big leagues, to try it out at least.Find more Rangers coverage from The Dallas Morning News here.Click or tap here to sign up for our Rangers newsletter.More about:Shawn covers the Texas Rangers and other Dallas-area sports for The News.
